No. 07 C 5181

Judge Norgle
Magistrate Brown

SUPPLEMENTAL DECLARATION OF STEVE TROMBLEY

I, Steve Trombley, hereby declare as follows:

1. I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth in the Declaration and could competently testify to them if called as a witness.
2. I am the President and CEO of Planned Parenthood Chicago Area ("PPCA").
3. I make this declaration in support of PPCA and Gemini Office Development LLC's ("Gemini") Motion for Preliminary Injunction.
4. This declaration supplements my declaration of September 12, 2007 already filed in this action.
5. Among the services Planned Parenthood will provide to both men and women at the 3051 E. New York Street facility are the following:
 - Annual gynecological exams;
 - Cancer screening for cervical, breast, and other cancers;
 - Examinations and counseling about birth control and family planning, including education about abstinence;
 - Prescribing and dispensing contraceptive drugs and devices;

- Screening and treatment for sexually transmitted infections;
- Screening and treatment for vaginal and urinary tract infections;
- Confidential HIV testing and counseling;
- Immunizations;
- Pap tests, as well as colposcopy and cryotherapy for abnormal Pap results; and
- Medical and surgical abortions.

6. Planned Parenthood provides these services on an “as needed basis” to its patients, regardless of means. For many people, then, this facility offers the only affordable gynecological, contraceptive or reproductive medical care within a reasonable distance.

7. Less than 10 percent of the services which Planned Parenthood provides relate to abortions.

8. On July 27, 2007, the Chicago Tribune published a front page article describing the Aurora clinic and Planned Parenthood’s role. {A copy of this article is attached to the initial Trombley Affidavit as Exhibit 4}.

9. In response to this article, opponents of abortion staged a candle light vigil at the outpatient facility on August 9, 2007. {A copy of the Aurora Beacon article describing this event is attached hereto as Exhibit 1 to this Declaration.}

10. Representatives of Planned Parenthood had conversations with officials of Aurora as early as February 2007. These conversations are supported by contemporaneous email and telephone records. {A copy of the emails and telephone records of PPCA documenting these discussions is attached hereto as Exhibit 2}.

11. Further, the bond financing which Planned Parenthood obtained through the Illinois Finance Authority required certain public disclosures. In and around May 2007, therefore, the Chicago SunTimes published public notices describing the relationship between

Planned Parenthood and Gemini, and a description of the Aurora medical facility. {A copy of the SunTimes bond notice is attached hereto as Exhibit 3.}

12. Finally, the architectural drawings that Gemini submitted to Aurora, contained unusual security features: bullet resistant glass in the reception area, bullet resistant doors and bullet resistant drywall. These security measures were necessary protection given the violence that has occurred at many abortion facilities, but also were early signals to Aurora. {A copy of portions of the architectural drawings submitted to the City of Aurora is attached hereto as Exhibit 4.}

13. On August 28, Aurora named Richard Martens, a former chair of the ABA Section of Municipal Law, as the attorney conducting the “independent review” of Planned Parenthood’s applications. {A copy of the Aurora Beacon article describing the hiring of Mr. Martens is attached hereto as Exhibit 5.}

14. On August 31, Aurora terminated Mr. Martens in response to complaints from City Council members. {A copy of the Aurora Beacon article describing these events is attached hereto as Exhibit 6.}

15. Aurora then named Phillip Luetkehans as the new “independent” council. However, questions soon arose about Mr. Luetkehans political contributions and his ability to conduct an “independent review.” {A copy of the Aurora Beacon article describing these events is attached hereto as Exhibit 7.}

16. Aurora then designated Kane County State's Attorney John Barsanti, as the new counsel to oversee the "independent review." {A copy of the Aurora Beacon article describing these events is attached hereto as Exhibit 8}.

17. I received two emails from Melissa Ernst attaching communications she received from Alderman Chris Beykirch, a member of the Aurora City Council representing Ward 8. {Copies of the September 17 and September 18 emails are attached hereto as Exhibit 9}.

18. On September 18, 2007, I received an email from Kelli Haley attaching correspondence she provided to the Aurora City Council. {A copy of this email is attached hereto as Exhibit 10.}

Further affiant sayeth not.

Anti-abortion group to launch 40-day vigil in Aurora

August 9, 2007

By Kristen Zambo Staff Writer

AURORA — Anti-abortion demonstrators today will launch a 40-day vigil against a Planned Parenthood women's health center opening next month on Aurora's far East Side.

Motorists along Oakhurst Drive near the Dominick's grocery will be greeted, starting at 8 a.m., by demonstrators praying, reading Bible passages and holding signs about the medical center and against abortions. Planned Parenthood/Chicago Area staff plan to open a full-service health center on 3.24 acres at 240 N. Oakhurst Drive, in the DuPage County section of Aurora.

"We're pro-life and we want to let them know we're very upset with this," the Rev. Hugh Fullmer, pastor at Our Lady of Mercy Church in Aurora, said Wednesday. "It's not wanted in our community. That's why we're doing it."

The health center is scheduled to open Sept. 18. Abortion services are expected to be available at the approximately 22,000-square-foot office.

"I hope they bring lots of water with them because it's hot," said Steve Trombley, president and CEO of Planned Parenthood/Chicago Area.

The vigil will last from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. today. For the remaining 39 days until the center opens, two- to three-person shifts will man the vigil in front of the health center 24 hours a day, Our Lady of Mercy parishioner Jane Fonner said.

"We feel that since the Planned Parenthood clinic probably will open ... we are going to pray just peacefully. It's just to ask for God's grace and mercy for the unborn," said Fonner, the mother of two adopted daughters.

The medical center will provide an array of women's health-care services, such as gynecological exams, birth control counseling and prescriptions and cervical cancer screening. An estimated 10 percent of the medical care there will involve abortions.

"It isn't going to have an impact on our opening whatsoever," Trombley said of the vigils. "The building is done. People need these services."

Demonstrations hosted in other communities haven't stopped patients from seeking medical services, nor shuttered any Planned Parenthood offices, he added.

Aurora Police Lt. Brian Olsen said no extra patrols are scheduled because of the protests.

"We'll only respond there if we're called," Olsen said. "Hopefully it's nice and quiet."

Members of the Pro-Life Action League have scheduled a meeting about the health center for 7 p.m. Aug. 16 at the Prisco Community Center, 150 W. Illinois Ave., Aurora. A planned Aug. 22 demonstration at the center has been rescheduled to Aug. 25.

Aurora reviewing clinic approval

City hires law firm to check Planned Parenthood application process

August 28, 2007

By ANDRE SALLES Staff Writer

AURORA -- Responding to the controversy surrounding a new Planned Parenthood clinic, the city of Aurora has hired a law firm to review its approval process for the far East Side business to make sure there was no wrongdoing.

Mayor Tom Weisner's chief of staff, Bill Wiet, said in a memo Monday that the city has hired Chicago attorney Richard Martens to examine the city's development process, which culminated in approval in November 2006. Martens is past chairman of the Chicago Bar Association Local Government Committee and serves on a committee for the Illinois Municipal League.

"This is definitely a rare occurrence," said city spokesman Carie Anne Ergo. "I don't know of another instance in which the city has done this."

Why this time? Ergo said there have been questions raised in recent weeks about whether Planned Parenthood might have taken an inappropriate tack by bringing the development in under the Gemini Development Corp. moniker. Though the development was approved in November, its specific use was only revealed last month, sparking outrage from anti-abortion groups.

The city granted Planned Parenthood a 30-day temporary occupancy permit, which expires Sept. 17, prior to the center opening. Ergo said the goal is to have Martens' review completed by the following day, when the city will be asked to issue a permanent occupancy permit.

"If the review indicates that our laws have been followed, the city will be obligated to issue a final occupancy permit for the facility opening on Sept. 18, 2007," Wiet wrote in his memo.

Planned Parenthood/Chicago Area representatives could not be reached for comment Monday night.

News of the independent review pleased Eric Scheidler, communications director for the Chicago-based Pro-Life Action League. Scheidler's group has been picketing and protesting the new clinic since hearing about it, and he said he thinks Planned Parenthood deceived the city.

"I don't have the disadvantage of being a lawyer," he said. "I'm just a guy who thinks that if you lie to government officials, you ought to be held accountable."

Scheidler said he is glad to see the city "stepping up," and sees this move as a potential first step toward refusing to issue an occupancy permit, and opening the door to future litigation.

The Pro-Life Action League last week filed suit against the city, alleging that Aurora police compromised their free speech by giving conflicting information about where protesters could stand, or how they could display signs.

But Bonnie Grabenhofer, president of the Illinois chapter of the National Organization for Women, said she is outraged that the anti-abortion groups are "trying to intimidate the city." She said Aurora has been fair throughout the process, and she understands the city's desire to prove they did nothing wrong.

"Planned Parenthood did everything they were required to do," she said. "The city of Aurora did everything they were required to do. Hiring a lawyer to investigate that seems like a waste of taxpayer money."

Both sides of the debate plan to speak at tonight's 6 p.m. City Council meeting. According to City Clerk Cheryl Vonhoff, more than 60 people have signed up to address the council on this issue.

Ergo said Martens has been placed on retainer, and the city has no estimate of how much his services will cost. But the savings in allaying future litigation could make it all worth it.

"We believe we have followed the letter of the law, and we're just taking additional steps to make sure that's the case," she said. "It's just a case of us crossing the Ts and dotting the Is."

Objections raised to choice of law firm planned parenthood process

September 1, 2007

By ANDRE SALLES Staff Writer

AURORA -- In response to objections from several aldermen, Mayor Tom Weisner has decided to allow the City Council to choose a new attorney to review the approval process for a controversial Planned Parenthood clinic on the far East Side.

The facility was approved in November 2006 by the Planning and Development Committee, and because the property on East New York Street was already zoned for a medical building, a sign-off by the full council was not required.

But questions have been raised in recent weeks over whether Planned Parenthood acted appropriately during the process. The development was approved under the name Gemini Office Development, and the true occupant of the building was not revealed until recently.

The clinic has been causing a stir in the community because it will provide abortions.

Earlier this week, the city hired Chicago lawyer Richard Martens to do a review of the approval process, hoping to have his report in hand by Sept. 17, when Planned Parenthood's temporary occupancy permit expires. But after asking for and receiving objections to Martens' hiring, Weisner has decided to leave it in the hands of the council.

Objections were filed by Aldermen Stephanie Kifowit, 3rd Ward; Rick Lawrence, 4th Ward; Chris Beykirch, 8th Ward; and Richard Irvin, at-large. The four are concerned that Martens rents office space at 20 N. Wacker Drive in Chicago from the city's outside legal counsel, Klein, Thorpe and Jenkins. Martens also worked as a summer legal clerk for the firm in 1968 and 1971.

City spokesman Carie Anne Ergo said the only criteria for selecting the independent reviewer was that he not have previously contracted with the city, or been linked with Planned Parenthood or anti-abortion organizations.

"Where he rents his office from is immaterial," Ergo said. "It's not a concern for the mayor."

But it is a concern for some aldermen, and the mayor has left it in the council's hands. He's tasked the two attorneys on the council, Irvin and Bob O'Connor, to select a suitable candidate -- which could include Martens, if they chose -- and gain consensus from the rest of the council.

O'Connor, however, is concerned there will not be enough time. The deadline set forth in Weisner's memo for the final report is Sept. 12, six days before a permanent occupancy permit would need to be issued to meet the original timeline. City officials estimate the investigation would take a week to complete, leaving the council only a couple of days next week to find a new independent attorney they can agree on.

"We can't be locked into that because it's not within our control," O'Connor said. "We'll be dealing with (attorneys who) have their own worlds, their own timing. I'm not positive we can say we can fit it into that time period."

Aldermen could extend the temporary occupancy permit to meet the needs of a longer investigation.

Ergo said the investigation needs to be done by the original deadline to "protect the taxpayers of Aurora against a potentially costly lawsuit" filed by Planned Parenthood.

"If the City Council is unable to reach a decision, the mayor is ready to step in and choose an independent attorney," she said.

As for Martens, who has already substantially completed his investigation at $185 an hour, he took the news in stride.

"The city needs to do whatever it feels comfortable with," he said. "Whatever works for the city works for me."

New lawyer chosen to review Planned Parenthood application

September 8, 2007

By ANDRE SALLES Staff Writer

AURORA – Aldermen have selected a new attorney to conduct an investigation into Planned Parenthood's entry into Aurora.

The choice is Phillip A. Luetkehans, of the Itasca-based firm Schirott and Luetkehans. That firm has an extensive list of municipal clients over 36 years, including the cities of Geneva, St. Charles and Yorkville. Luetkehans is a resident of Wheaton, and formerly worked for the DuPage County state's attorney's office.

Luetkehans was selected by Aldermen-at-Large Bob O'Connor and Richard Irvin, the two attorneys on the City Council. Irvin said that both he and O'Connor received separate recommendations for Luetkehans over the last few days.

If approved by the full council, Luetkehans will begin next week looking into a development process that some have decried as deceptive. Planned Parenthood expects to open its new facility on East New York Street on Sept. 18, and has drawn controversy with its plans to perform abortions there.

The building was approved last year under the name Gemini Office Development, and the facility's true occupant was not revealed until recently. Some have charged that Planned Parenthood lied to aldermen to conceal its true identity. Under pressure from anti-abortion groups, the city agreed to an independent investigation last month.

The attorney that city staff selected, Chicago-based Richard Martens, was found to have connections with the city's outside legal counsel, Klein, Thorpe and Jenkins. Four aldermen objected, and Mayor Tom Weisner assigned O'Connor and Irvin to choose a replacement and gain consensus from the council.

In his memo to aldermen, O'Connor emphasized that Luetkehans has no connection with the city, its legal counsel, Planned Parenthood, or any anti-abortion or abortion rights groups. Aldermen have been asked to file any objections to Luetkehans' selection by Monday at noon.

"I don't see any objection," said Alderman Stephanie Kifowit, 3rd Ward. "I can't see why I would file anything."

Kifowit was one of the four who objected to Martens, along with Aldermen Rick Lawrence, 4th Ward; Chris Beykirch, 8th Ward; and Irvin. Beykirch agreed with Kifowit, saying that he "100 percent" supports the choice, and Lawrence said he is encouraged by what he saw in O'Connor's memo, but would continue to do his own research over the weekend.

Officials from Planned Parenthood said this week that they still plan to open on Sept. 18, although it is looking unlikely that the investigation will be completed by then. Weisner said Thursday that he would not issue an occupancy permit until the investigation is finished.

Council choses Barsanti

County's top lawyer to review Planned Parenthood approval

September 19, 2007

By ANDRE SALLES Staff Writer

AURORA – Seemingly unable to find a suitable candidate to conduct an independent investigation into Planned Parenthood's approval process, the city of Aurora will turn to the highest legal authority in Kane County.

State's Attorney John Barsanti has agreed to review reports made by two other attorneys – Chicago-based Richard Martens and Itasca-based Phillip Luetkehans.

Both were chosen – first Martens, then Luetkehans – to conduct an independent review of the process by which Planned Parenthood received approval for its new 22,000-square-foot facility at East New York Street and Oakhurst Drive.

Some have charged that Planned Parenthood deceived the city by coming in under the name Gemini Office Development. Gemini received approval for the building in November, but the true occupant of the new facility was revealed only eight months later. City officials commissioned the independent review last month.

Four aldermen objected to the choice of Martens to conduct the review because of his connections with the city's outside legal counsel, Chicago-based Klein, Thorpe and Jenkins.

Aldermen Richard Irvin and Bob O'Connor then chose Luetkehans to replace Martens, but news broke last week that Luetkehans contributed to Irvin's failed mayoral campaign in 2005, raising doubts about his suitability for the job as well.

Aldermen discussed handing the matter over to Barsanti in an executive session Tuesday and, according to O'Connor, the idea met with unanimous approval.

"He's willing to step up and undertake the task, to his credit," O'Connor said. "We will certainly take advantage of it."

Barsanti will take up the review for free, officials said. Martens completed his report at a cost of $185 per hour, and city officials could not be reached to confirm Luetkehans' fee.

Planned Parenthood officials could not be reached for comment, although Planned Parenthood/Chicago Area CEO Steve Trombley has described the investigation as "politicized."

A federal judge is expected to rule Thursday on Planned Parenthood's request for an emergency injunction to open its doors.

Aurora Mayor Tom Weisner has said the city will not issue a permanent occupancy permit until the investigation is complete. The clinic's temporary occupancy permit expired Monday.

No timeline has been set for Barsanti's review, though O'Connor said Barsanti is "aware of the need for efficiency in this matter."

Melissa-

Since you decided to make your e-mail widely public, I did too. I gave you a perspective on the issue that I felt you should know. I think PP and its leaders are widely deceptive to the governments of communities all around the U.S. I do not like the fact they took our ability to plan out of our hands with their deception. I can't imagine that even a pro-PP person could see that the long term effects of their location are not good for my neighborhood.

You touched on my morality. I have never been a Pro-Life activist, but I am Pro-Life. I do believe life begins at conception. Why else would people put ultrasounds on their refrigerator? Even though I am elected, I come to the office with life experiences that lead me one way or another. I am Pro-Life. I will also abide by the law of the land as I am sworn to do. I will not go along with it though until the law says I must. I will also never think positively about a "medical practice" that will perform abortions on minors without parental consent regardless of their extremist ideals of why they should be allowed to.

I hope you understand I am entitled to an opinion as much as you.
